

APPLICATION INFORMATION FOR THE SPRING 2022 TERM

YOUNG LEARNERS ENGLISH PROGRAM SECONDARY SCHOOL ENGLISH PROGRAM UNIVERSITY PROGRAM

We are accepting applications from overseas and from inside Japan for the in-class teaching positions of the University Program, Young Learners English Program, and Secondary School English Program.

For the Spring 2022 term, lessons in these programs are set to be delivered face-to-face on campus. However, it is possible that the method of lesson delivery could be switched to online teaching or a combination of in-class and online lessons. There is even the possibility of instructors being asked to be present on campus to deliver online lessons.

A decision to change the method of lesson delivery could occur at any time, i.e., either before or after the start of the semester. Therefore, we are looking for applicants who are interested in teaching on campus in Japan, but who would be willing to switch to working remotely when required.

Notes:

- Instructors will need to follow the rules and guidelines of their respective workplaces with regard to precautionary measures for the spread of COVID-19. These measures would apply to all instructors, even those who have been fully vaccinated, and will include social distancing, wearing a mask, gargling, washing your hands, using hand sanitizer, and avoiding closed or crowded places.
- The decisions regarding the classroom setting and rules, the lesson style, and the on-campus hours are made by the clients and Westgate will need to comply with their requests. Likewise, Westgate instructors will need to provide lessons in the manner decided by our clients.
- Working hours on our programs are between 8:50am-5:50pm, 9:00am-6:30pm, or similar (Japan Standard Time).
- Westgate can only offer positions which cover the full Monday-Friday working week, i.e., there are no positions for those who are only available on certain weekdays.

BASIC PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES

In order for Westgate instructors to be protected against COVID-19, as well as to protect the staff members and students of our client schools and universities, we recommend that instructors get fully vaccinated at their earliest opportunity.

For in-class settings, Westgate takes the following measures*:

- Setting up guidelines for keeping social distance in the classroom
- Asking both instructors and students to wear masks or face shields
- Ensuring that there is adequate ventilation
- Having sanitizers available
- Asking instructors to take a COVID-19 test when needed

*These measures should be adhered to regardless of one's vaccination status.
